

My Row and Piles of Coins

1	Saruni goes to the market with his mother, Yeyo, every Saturday.
2	Saruni earns 10 cent coins by helping his mother at the market.
3	Saruni wants to buy a bicycle with his money to help his mother do errands.
4	He tries to ride his dad's big, heavy bicycle and falls and the kids laugh at them.
5	The tall, skinny man at the bike shop laughed at him for not having enough money to buy the bicycle.
6	Eventually his father, Murete, gives him a bicycle and gives him his money back!
7	Towards the end, he uses his new bicycle to help carry things for his mom.
8	NOW, he wants to save his piles and rows of coins to help by a cart to be pulled with bicycle to help his mother lighten her load.
